The Albacora complex is located on the lower part of the western slope of the Puerto Rico residential area, about 400 metres from the beach and very well located due to its proximity to all kinds of services, such as supermarkets, bus and taxi stops, restaurants and the shopping centre with countless bars and terraces. The building has four floors and a lift, with eight flats per floor and two more flats on the pool floor, which are not used for tourist accommodation.~~This flat faces south, which means it gets sun all day long in any season, making it a very bright place to live. Although close to all kinds of services, it is free from noise and pedestrians, as it is a residential area.
