In the heart of Arguineguín's Old Town lies this unique property, set in a location that is becoming increasingly difficult to find. Here, you can experience the essence of an authentic Canarian fishing village, in a neighbourhood where the traditional way of life is still preserved. As evening falls, it is common to see neighbours bring their chairs out into the street to chat and enjoy the cool night air, just as generations have done before them. The property is arranged over four floors and currently features nine bedrooms, two bathrooms, a kitchen and an accessible rooftop terrace. The property requires complete renovation and is intended for a buyer with vision, enthusiasm and the ability to restore it to its former splendour.
